

ALEX HAMPSHIRE

NSA

Thanks for getting back to me. Basically my tone of voice is what says it all. I'm not looking for anything serious. I like to have a lot of random, but safe, occasional fun. I'm basically looking for some fun.

I work a lot, so I don't have time for anything more than being who I am. I moved here from a small, unimportant place pretty far away a few days ago and I don't know anyone yet, so that answers your first question.

You know what people have been asking me, so no, I am not fake. Yes I am real, local, and very new at this. How about you? What do you like to do? What's your favorite name to be called?

I won't tell anyone else as long as you promise me you are real. I have documents that show I'm pretty safe. I take a lot of safety precautions when disclosing my private information.

I sent a few photographs that I would like to ask you not to share with anyone. That's me by the marble steps. The rest are from years before with the poor flash from my previous encounters.
